REDS REJECT POLES' OFFER

Russia Won't Negotiate While Diplomatic Relations Are Broken.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—The American government has advised the Soviet government of its willingness to work for restoration of good relations between Russia and Poland, Secretary Hull disclosed today, and is hopeful that such relations may be resumed.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 17—The Soviet government, interpreting the Polish statement of Jan. 14 as a rejection of its offer to negotiate a new Russian-Polish border on a Curzon line basis, emphasized today it could not "enter into official negotiations with a government with which diplomatic relations have been interrupted."

Moscow's short sharp reply also raked up the Katyn forest mass graves accusation by Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels last April with a reminder that Polish recognition of the charge caused the diplomatic break.

Hard on the heels of this response, Moscow announced in another broadcast that a Russian state commission now is investigating "the murder of Polish officers and prisoners of war killed by German occupationists in the Katyn-Smolensk district."

The Moscow broadcasts received immediate attention of the Polish government, expected to summon a cabinet meeting today. Some Poles in official circles regarded Moscow's tone as substantiating their fears Russia is not willing to negotiate with the Polish government-in-exile under British-American mediation.

The only ray of hope apparently was the fact the Russians did not say flatly they would not resume diplomatic relations with the exile government, but it seemed likely the latter would have to be re-shuffled to be acceptable to Moscow.

The Soviet statement replying to the Polish note which asked British-American help in bringing Poland and Russia together, referred to the diplomatic break as caused by the Poles' acceptance of Goebbels' charges and declared the graves were filled "by German occupationists."

Earlier last week Moscow had offered to negotiate the border problem on basis of the line drawn after the first world war by an allied commission headed by Viscount Curzon, British foreign secretary. By this suggestion, Russia would retain most of the contested territory, but at the same time Moscow urged that Poland expand westward, taking certain German territory.

QUAKE STRIKES MIGHTY BLOW

Survivor Tells How Andean City Was Struck with Casualties in Thousands.

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 17 — A survivor of the disastrous earthquake which wiped out the picturesque Andean city of San Juan during the week-end, killing and injuring thousands, said today the temblor struck one mighty blow, "cutting the city at the roots as if by a scythe."

The survivor, Moises Rudman, declared upon reaching Mendoza the quake came without warning, and in an instant plunged the city of 30,000 into total darkness. Hundreds of survivors huddled in the city square and open spaces, he added, while others sought to extricate the dying and injured whose screams were heard in the darkness.

Troops and other rescue workers were digging additional bodies from the ruins of the dead city today as the nation mobilized aid for the survivors of Argentina's worst earthquake in 83 years. By official count 500 bodies have been recovered so far, but estimates mounted to between 1,400 and 1,600 dead.

(Pres. Gen. Pedro Ramirez of Argentina has called an emergency cabinet meeting for 9 a. m. today to consider additional measures for relief and reconstruction of the city, the Buenos Aires radio said.

Authorities said 90 per cent of the buildings in San Juan, jolted by four shocks Saturday night and Sunday morning, were destroyed and none of those left standing was habitable. The quake crumbled modern, steel-reinforced structures, such as the city hall and other government buildings, as well as the twin-spired 19th century cathedral and other more ancient buildings.

The town was founded by Spaniards in 1562.

EISENHOWER IN BRITAIN, BEGINS INVASION JOB

General of Allied Armies Arrives in England After Visit to U. S.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 17 — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, here to command the invasion of western Europe, told correspondents today he was taking over the allied reins with the job already well advanced by the great work of the air, naval and supply forces.

It was disclosed Lt.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley, who served under Eisenhower as commander of the Second American army corps in Tunisia, had become senior commander of American ground forces in the United Kingdom—possibly the U. S. counterpart to Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of British ground forces for the invasion.

At Algiers, Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson focused new attention on the invasion in his first public appearance as commander of the Mediterranean theater. He said the object of the Italian campaign is to capture Rome, but that the Mediterranean front extends from the Balkans to the Pyrenees and attacks might be made anywhere along it, including southern France.

General Satisfied

Gen. Eisenhower expressed the greatest satisfaction with the lieutenants assigned him for the job of smashing into Hitler's Fortress. He stressed to a press conference that his is to be an allied command of allied operations, with questions of national prestige subordinated to military efficiency.

He said he was highly pleased to be able to confer enroute with both President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

The allied air fleet's pounding of Germany, the navy's defeat of the submarines and its transport of men and supplies, and the organization of vast stores of supplies and equipment in the United Kingdom all drew praise as essential preliminaries to his job.

Eisenhower's arrival was announced yesterday by the newly-established "supreme headquarters of the allied expeditionary force," which disclosed he had conferred with Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt enroute to Britain from the Mediterranean, where he recently has been in command.

Meets Roosevelt, Marshall

The bulletin—first issued from his headquarters here—was followed by a war department announcement in Washington that Gen. Eisenhower had spent "a few days" in Washington where he had conferred with President Roosevelt and Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. chief of staff.

The place of Eisenhower's meeting with Churchill was not disclosed but it presumably was somewhere in the Mediterranean area. A dispatch from Algiers last night said Churchill had conferred with Gen. Charles De Gaulle at Marrakech, French Morocco, last Wednesday and had reached agreement on the part French forces are to play in the invasion.

Eisenhower said farewell to his Mediterranean troops Jan. 2 after predicting an allied victory over Germany in 1944.

Fourth War Loan Gets a $119,605 Send-off

3,820 Share in Early Purchases; Drive To Start on Nationwide Basis Tomorrow.

Marion County's Fourth W[illegible] good start today with $119,605 [illegible] report made at [illegible] headquarters [illegible] at a rally Friday night.

Since the emphasis [illegible] leaders were pleased to note that [illegible] with some 3,820 persons sharing in the purchases.

The Marion county campaign [illegible] momentum Tuesday when the Fourth War Loan [illegible] nationwide scale. The Marion county drive's start was held last Friday as a matter of local convenience, and gave workers a chance to get a preliminary start on their calls before the opening of the national drive.

Leaders today asked persons who have bought as many extra war bonds as they can handle in the Fourth War Loan drive to post at once the stickers being distributed by workers. If a store or factory worker boosts his regular purchases up to the equivalent of a third of a month's income and is given a sticker, he can help the campaign organization by immediately posting that sticker in the window of his home.

Appeal to Workers

As the first reports started coming in today, Robert F. White, Fourth War Loan chairman, issued a special appeal for all workers to make their assigned contacts this week.

"The machinery is set up to reach every family in Marion county, and only by following through on this plan can we be even reasonably sure of success," he said.

He pointed out that in addition to the block chairmen, treasury representatives, labor - management committees and rural community and township organizations that functioned in the last war loan drive, the air raid wardens have been added this time to conduct a house-to-house canvass in the city.

"We realize that when the air raid wardens make one of their calls, they're bound to hit many families that have made purchases at the stores or shops where the members of the family are employed—but our experience in the last drive proved that the house-to-house canvass is necessary to reach a considerable portion of our people," Mr. White said.

"It came to our attention at the close of the last drive that scores of people had not been asked personally to buy extra bonds. At the same time [illegible] show that [illegible] per cent of all persons asked to buy bonds did so, whereas only 17 per cent of the people not personally contacted made purchases. That shows the importance of making a personal contact with each home. I'm convinced the air raid wardens can be of great help in this campaign if they will faithfully work the areas assigned to them."

"Heroes' Day" Set

Meanwhile, Marion county ministers were being asked by war bond officials to lend their assistance in the Fourth War Loan by observing next Sunday as War Heroes Day. Letters went out today asking them to plan a special sermon or at least [illegible] time special observance of War Heroes Day at next Sunday's services. Churches in many cities are cooperating in the Fourth War Loan with similar activities next Sunday. Pastors have been asked to build their services around men in service from their own congregations.

Daily reports on the progress of the drive will be made through the War Finance Committee headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce office on North State street. Workers have been asked to take their reports of sales or bond orders direct to the banks, which will handle the issuing of the bonds and keep records which will be totaled daily at the drive headquarters.

TROOPS CLOSE CASSINO TRAP

Reach River Banks Following Attack Along 30-Mile Front.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Jan. 17—Attacking along a 30-mile front, American and French troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army reached the steep banks of the Rapido river which runs through Cassino, and have begun battering assaults on the Gustav defense line, main barricade to Rome, allied headquarters announced today.

The exact penetration where American troops finally pushed up to the Rapido, which runs almost due north and south at Cassino, was not announced. Previously, however, U. S. infantrymen had stormed and captured Mt. Trocchio, whose peak is but two miles from the town and it was possible they had thrust on down the slopes to Cassino itself.

French Advance

The French of Gen. Alphonse Juin also marched through the [illegible] Apennines to reach the upper Rapido, after capturing the village of Cardito and another of the many Mt. Croce which dot the Italian terrain.

ICKES RULES U. S. WILL HOLD MINES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 — Secretary Ickes announced today that the justice department has ruled continuing possibility of work stoppages permits the government to retain possession of seized coal mines even though virtually normal production has been restored.

The Smith-Connally [illegible] act [illegible] government [illegible] seized mine [illegible] restored to the owners within sixty days after the return to the productive efficiency prevailing prior to government seizure.

Attorney General Biddle has ruled, however, Ickes said, that "productive efficiency has not been restored within the meaning of section three of the war labor disputes act" since, if the government relinquished possession, there might be "further interferences with production through strikes or stoppages or threats of strikes or stoppages."

Ickes, government administrator of the mines, has turned back to their owners 165 mines which had no contract with the United Mine Workers and at which no work stoppages were threatened. But the bulk of the nation's 3,000-odd soft coal workings still are in government hands.

PRAVDA STORY STIRS WONDER AMONG ALLIES

Soviet Paper Reports Separate Settlement Aim of Parley with Ribbentrop.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Jan. 17 — Pravda [illegible] report today [illegible] British officials had conferred secretly with Joachim von Ribbentrop to find terms for a separate peace with Germany, and added:

"It is understood the meeting did not remain without results."

The 10-line dispatch published in Pravda's foreign news page under the heading "Rumors from Cairo," said the meeting had the aim of finding out the conditions of a separate peace with the Germans."

It took place "in one of the seacoast cities of the Pyrenees peninsula," apparently Spain or Portugal, according to the official communist party newspaper's report.

Text of Story

The text of the dispatch:

"CAIRO, Jan. 12 (By Special Correspondent of Pravda)—According to information from reliable Greek and Yugoslav sources, a secret meeting took place recently in one of the seacoast cities of the Pyrenees peninsula between two English officials and Von Ribbentrop.

The meeting had the aim of finding out the conditions of a separate peace with the Germans. It is understood the meeting did not remain without results."

(Tass said the meeting was in a "coastal town in the Iberian peninsula," in a broadcast picked up by the Soviet Monitor in London.

(There was no elaboration or comment on the dispatch.

(British reaction to the Pravda story was to reiterate the repeated British declaration that no peace would be negotiated with the Germans without full accord of all the allies, including the Russians and Americans.

(A British spokesman whose name cannot be used was inclined to regard the story lightly, raising the question that if it originated in Cairo, why was it not circulated by British and American news agencies as well as Pravda? He expressed doubt that any such report passed the Cairo censorship.)

Washington Reaction

(In Washington the first reaction of officials was frank amazement such a report should have been published in a paper which usually speaks with such authority as Pravda. In a less authoritative publication the report would have received little or no attention.

(Concern [illegible] to any possibility of truth in the report since the British have committed themselves on many occasions against a separate peace, than it did to the Russian purpose in allowing the report circulation.)

The original Soviet-British agreement on joint war-time action against Germany and their later 20-year alliance both provided neither side would make a separate peace.

Pravda's report amounted to an accusation that Britain [illegible] [illegible] Germany [illegible] of a separate peace.

The sentence that the parley did not remain without results, carried to Russians the positive note that it had at least partial [illegible]

Allies Credulous

The dispatch [illegible] interest and [illegible] among the Russian public but met with incredulity in allied quarters.

There were two interesting points about the dispatch:

1. Although it appeared in the organ of the communist party it was not official and did not even bear the weight of a dispatch of the official news agency, Tass, but was labelled plainly as from special Balkan sources.

The newspaper itself classified the story as among "rumors."

2. The mere fact of publication of the story was of considerable importance at a time when the United Nations appeared to have been indissolubly joined after the Moscow and Teheran conferences.

While Pravda's back page carried the Cairo story of separate peace negotiations, the front page

Soldier Who Can Paint Does Some Work on Broadway

By ARLENE WOLF
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK—The Army's a sketch to 19-year-old Pvt. Stephen Ettinger—a sketch in water colors.

Ten months ago, Ettinger was worrying his way through pre-dental school at the University of Pennsylvania and sneaking off to paint whenever he had a free hour. Then Uncle Sam came along, gave him a new suit of clothes, and new vistas to set down on canvas.

Ettinger was studying dentistry to please his parents, and never could see anything artistic about even the most beautiful bridgework.

"I could almost see myself drilling the outlines of little cherubs on people's fillings," he says, "but then of course they wouldn't have any bite."

The blue-eyed private, who never studied art except for a one month night-school course, sketched his way from the induction center right through ten months in the Army. He has a portfolio of little glimpses of villages he's seen en route from one camp to another, and characteristic Army scenes from K.P. to close-order drill.

Ettinger always wanted to work in illustration and stage designing. So when he knew he was coming to New York en route to Bergstrom Field in Austin, Tex., he wrote the New York City Defense Recreation Center about it. Couldn't they arrange for him to see some shows and sketch them from the wings?

He saw eight performances of five Broadway hits. Paul Robeson added his autograph to his portrait as "Othello" and the theater Guild liked Ettinger's sketches of "Oklahoma" so well it's going to hang them in the lobby.

STATE DEPARTMENT RESHUFFLES LINEUP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—The state department [illegible] today [illegible] workshop here at home.

Although the [illegible] building on Pennsylvania [illegible] looks the same, a sweeping reorganization is taking place there as the result of an order issued Saturday night by Secretary Cordell Hull.

In a general streamlining, the department moved numerous [illegible] on its headquarters [illegible] to speed execution of American foreign policy.

These moves, it said, will help each man to know better where his own job stops and the next man's begins.

There were promotions, but no demotions, in the reshuffle. The department says a framework is provided to enlarge its staff for the bigger job ahead, though officials stress that the acquisition of new personnel will have to wait until congress appropriates the money.

The new setup frees higher officials of much administrative work and allows them to concentrate on specialized fields of foreign relations.

3 Americans Killed in London Train Crash

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 17—A toll of nine dead and 30 injured, including three American airmen killed and nine other U. S. soldiers injured, was counted today in the crash of two London-bound trains in the suburban station of Ilford.

Both trains were crowded with hundreds of troops on leave. Names of the Americans were not disclosed immediately.

Most of the casualties were in the rear coach of a train from Yarmouth, hit by the Norwich express and catapulted atop the Norwich locomotive.

It was Britain's worst train wreck in two years. Many of the coaches were wooden.

W. S. Jack To Fight $7,000,000 Assessment

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17—William S. Jack, Cleveland industrialist, says he will fight in the courts a $7,000,000 treasury department contract renegotiation assessment made against Jack & Heintz Co.

Jack coupled his challenge with a declaration America was heading for a socialized form of government and a dictatorship greater than any ever seen.

JANITOR OUSTS MAYOR

By The United Press

NEW YORK — Occupational local government in German-held Europe has undoubtedly created many paradoxical situations, but few, perhaps, as strange as in the town of 's-Hertogenbosch, Netherlandss, where the Town Hall's janitor has had the mayor removed from office. The janitor, the local leader of the Dutch Nazi Party, was reprimanded by the mayor for mixing politics with his sweeping. He retaliated by suspending the mayor from party membership. Since none but party members may hold office under the Nazis, the mayor was removed. He "dived underground," the Netherlands Information Bureau reports, when the Gestapo was ordered to arrest him.

OHIO FALL PIG CROP LARGEST ON RECORD

By The Associated Press

[illegible], O., Jan. 17—Ohio's [illegible] last year was the [illegible] while field crop [illegible] slightly short of [illegible] the Ohio co- [illegible] reporting service [illegible] 2,016,000 head, exceeding by 10 per cent the previous record of 2,920,000 raised in the fall of 1942. The crop for all of 1943 was 6,634,000 head, also 10 per cent above the record 1942 crop and 48 per cent above the average for the preceding 10 years.

Despite a slight increase in acreage harvested, the 1943 field crop production was below the record level of 1942, but otherwise probably was the highest on record. Total acreage harvested in 1943 was 10,505,000 compared with 10,245,000 in 1942.

The harvested acreage of corn, soybeans for beans, potatoes and tame hay was larger than in 1942, while a smaller acreage of small grains and sugar beets was harvested. Hay seed acreage was reduced sharply. Yield per acre was lower for all principal crops and soybeans, buckwheat and burley tobacco were the only ones to show higher total production this year than last.

Spring Rains Will Save Crops, Experts Report

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17—Ohio has been experiencing one of the driest winters in years, but crops will escape damage if rainfall is normal between now and early spring, Ohio State university experts asserted today.

Precipitation during the past four months was 5.88 inches, little more than half the 10.69 normal, while December's 1.06 inches was the lowest since 1925 when a record low of .82 was set, the school's agricultural extension service reported.

The service said, however, the situation was not critical and "even normal rainfall" between now and spring would prevent crop damage.

The 5.88 inches of precipitation compares with approximately seven inches which should be stored in the soil before spring planting begins, the service declared.

New Automobile License Tags on Sale March 1

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17—Ohio's new license plates, one to a vehicle, go on sale March 1.

The 1944 tags have a blue background and white numerals and letters. They must be displayed on the rear of vehicles—automobiles, trucks, motorcycles and trailers—on and after April 1.

Cylon W. Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles, said the war production board had allocated enough steel to manufacture single instead of the customary two tags this year and next.

No tags were issued last year, because of the wartime steel shortage. Motor vehicle owners used 1942 plates and displayed windshield stickers to show they had paid 1943 license fees.

Highway Director Hal G. Sours urged autoists to turn in 1942 tags for scrap.

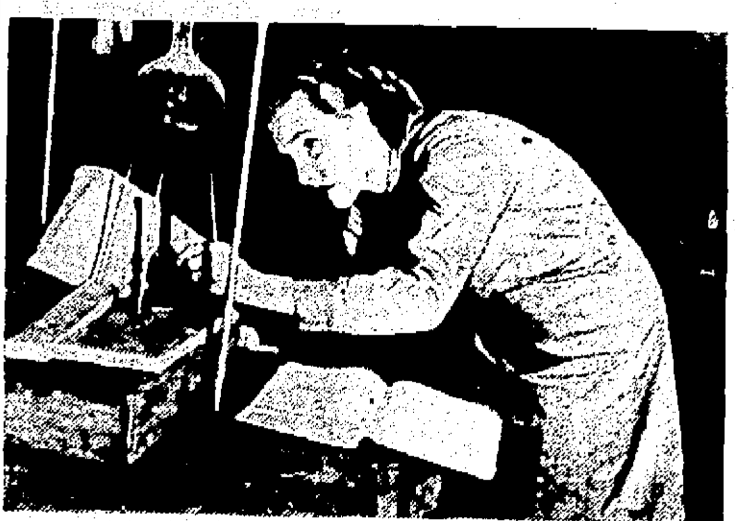
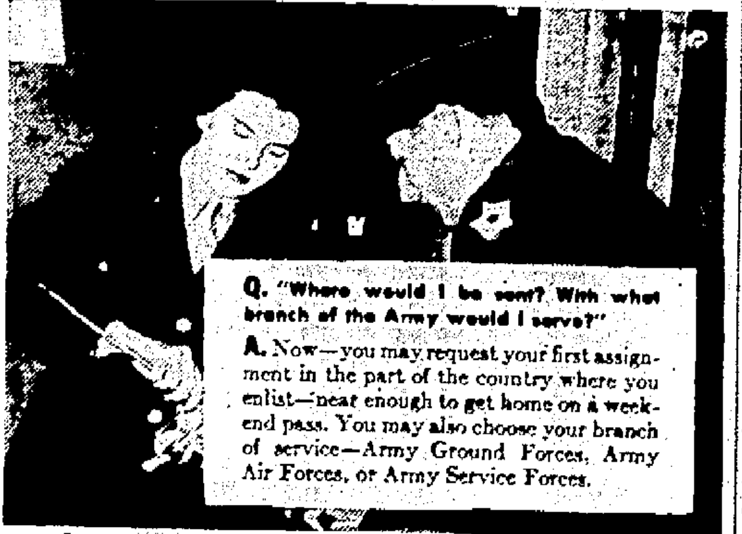
Is this what you've wondered about the WAC?



Q. "What kind of job would I do?"

A. Any one of 239 types of Army jobs. All kinds of special skills are needed—clerical workers, medical technicians, mechanics, teachers. Women without experience can get expert Army training—in skills for which they have natural aptitude.



Q. "Where would I be sent? With what branch of the Army would I serve?"

A. Now—you may request your first assignment in the part of the country where you enlist—near enough to get home on a week-end pass. You may also choose your branch of service—Army Ground Forces, Army Air Forces, or Army Service Forces.

Q. "Aren't there enough Wacs without me?"

A. No! General Marshall says: "Many thousands more Wacs are needed." Unless more women join at once, the War Department cannot meet the demands which come in daily from Army Ground Forces, Army Service Forces, and Army Air Forces.

Get full details at the nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station. (Your local post office will give you the address.) Or write: The Adjutant General, Room 4415, Munitions Building, Washington, C. D.

Women Voters To Be Major Factor in 1944 Election

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 17—As the 1944 campaign progresses, more attention will be focused on the role of women [illegible] time in [illegible].

Surveys show that in the 1942 Congressional elections women actually cast more votes than men for the first time since woman suffrage. This year, if the total number of ballots cast by service men in the presidential election is small, the women will again outnumber the men at the polls.

All evidence to date shows that the political sentiments of women have closely paralleled those of the men in recent months, except that women voters are a little more inclined to lean toward President Roosevelt and the New Deal than the men are. Women voters also take a somewhat different attitude toward various Republican candidates, being more in favor of General Douglas MacArthur than the men are, and slightly less in favor of Wendell Willkie. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York has about the same following among women as among the men.

Because of the growing importance of the women's vote, the Institute has made a special analysis of their attitudes toward parties and candidates as revealed in nation-wide surveys.

Women voters were asked, first, what party they want to see win the Presidential election in 1944. Their vote compares with the men in the civilian population as follows:

PARTY PREFERENCE TODAY

	Republican	Democratic
Women	47%	53%
Men	49	51

The above figures apply to the present civilian population and do not take into account men in the armed services. Plans for soldier voting are still being discussed in Washington.

Your Federal Income Tax

12—ITEMS EXEMPT FROM TAX

In the instructions accompanying return Form 1040 are listed certain items which are specifically exempt from the income tax and need not be reported as income in the taxpayer's return. Among these is life insurance paid on the death of the insured. Amounts so received are nontaxable to the beneficiary. However, life insurance paid to a policyholder on the maturity of an endowment contract (not a death payment) represents income, which must be reported, to the extent that the amount received is greater than the premiums or consideration paid for the policy. Amounts received up to the amount of the premiums or consideration paid for policy are nontaxable.

In the case of annuities received either under annuity or endowment insurance, or under retirement funds or plans toward which the taxpayer has contributed or made payments, a portion of the annuity is considered as representing a return of the funds originally paid in, and is nontaxable, and the balance is taxable as income. The amount considered as income, is an amount each year equal to 3 per cent of the total premiums, consideration, or payments made for the annuity. Amounts received in excess of 3 per cent of the total premiums, consideration, or payments made, are considered as return of principal and are nontaxable; however, when the total tax-free amounts received equal the total premiums, consideration or payments made for the annuity, then the entire amount of each annuity payment subsequently received is considered as income and must be so reported, both by the taxpayer and, after his death, by his widow or other beneficiary receiving such annuity payments.

Where property is received by or by bequest, devise, or inheritance, the value of the property is exempt from income tax, but any income derived from such property is subject to tax.

Where income from property is received in a lump sum as a gift, or by bequest, devise, or inheritance, it is exempt from income tax. Where, however, by the terms of the gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance, such income is to be received, credited, or distributed at intervals, it is subject to tax.

Interest on obligations of a State, Territory, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or possessions of the United States, is exempt from tax and, also, the interest on obligations of the United States issued prior to March 1, 1941, to the extent provided in the Acts authorizing their issue. For the manner of reporting such interest the instructions accompanying the return should be consulted. The same applies to interest on obligations issued prior to March 1, 1941, of a corporation organized under an Act of Congress if such corporation is an instrumentality of the United States.

Amounts received through accident or health insurance or under workmen's compensation acts for personal injury or sickness, and damages received on account of such injuries or sickness, are tax exempt and need not be reported as income.

Pensions and other types of compensation received by a veteran, who is no longer in active service, for services rendered by him in time of war may be exempt under express provisions of law, otherwise they are subject to income tax. Such pensions received by the family of a veteran are also exempt.

Amounts received as a pension, annuity, or similar allowance for personal injuries resulting from active service in the armed forces of any country are exempt.

Also exempt and not required to be reported is the rental value of a dwelling house and furnishings provided to a minister of the gospel as part of his compensation.

Beginning in 1943, members of the armed forces of the United States, and citizens or residents of the United States who are members of the military or naval forces of any of the other United Nations, are exempt from income tax on not more than $1,500 of the compensation received annually during the present war for active service in such forces, and the exempt amount may be excluded from gross income. This exemption applies without distinction as to rank or marital status, and is in addition to the personal exemption and other credits. If a husband and wife are both serving in the armed forces, then each is entitled to exclude such amounts from his or her service pay. Personnel in the inactive reserve or on retirement are not in "active service," but periods during which a person is absent from duty on account of sickness, wounds, leave, internment by the enemy, or other lawful cause are periods of "active service."

BUY WAR BONDS—4th War Loan

This Advertisement Is Published In Co-Operation With The Retailers for Victory War Effort — by

UHLER'S

Today, with the eyes of the world upon us,

THE FOURTH WAR LOAN IS LAUNCHED!

TODAY, the 17th of January, America's Fourth War Loan starts

It is the largest of all war loans in terms of individual participation—in the amount you must dig down for.

And—it is, perhaps, the most important of all War Loans. For it comes at a time when the eyes of all the world are upon us; the eyes of our friends, the eyes of our enemies, the eyes of our own fighting men.

We have just entered the crucial year of the war, a year of destiny, a year that promises to decide how good or bad a world we'll have to live in all the rest of our lives. And the world is wondering how deeply we mean it when we promise our men we'll back their attack, and when we promise our Allies we'll stick with them not only through the winning of the war but through the winning of the peace as well.

The Fourth War Loan is the home front's first big test of this new and vital year. It will take unity and determination of will of all the people to make the Loan succeed.

The need for this and other War Loans should be clear to every American. This war is the costliest effort ever undertaken by any country. It costs 250 million dollars each day. This is just the cost of the war, in addition to the regular, inescapable cost of running a great and huge country. Taxes can't take care of all this outgo. Neither can government borrowing from insurance companies, savings banks, corporations, and other large investors. It is necessary to turn to the people, their weekly wages, their savings accounts, the money tucked away in pantry sugar bowls, in socks, under mattresses.

This is as it should be. In a democracy, war is the business of all the people. Some must fight, some must work and put up the money.

It's the only way to raise the money. It's also the right way to raise the money. It gives you a good place to invest the extra money you have today. It's a curb on inflation, on that dangerous bulk of pocket money that leads to black markets and disastrous spending. It's a mattress for tomorrow, a sort of individually planned Social Security that will bring in welcome money in the years ahead when income might not be the Mississippi flood it is today.

These last are not the reasons for the Loans. They are extra reasons, however, over and above the $1 interest you get on every $3 you invest. The fundamental reason for the Fourth War Loan is that your beloved America, at war and in danger, needs your help!

Every one who has a job or savings, should invest at least $100—if possible, $200, $300, or $500 extra. Some 5,000,000 Americans, volunteers, will be working to sell these Bonds. One of these volunteers will ask you to buy, where you work, at your home, or some other place. If by some chance, you're missed, find out where to buy and buy on your own.

The place where you work will have a quota. That's where you should make your major investment. That's where your personal quota really counts

But...

The place you live also has a quota Try to invest there, too. Other people will ask you. Salespeople, in retail stores, have volunteered to help and have an individual quota. If they ask you to buy, try to buy from them, too. Movie theaters, restaurants, schools, banks, postoffices, and many other places also will be selling bonds.

The Fourth Loan is a test of us as a nation.

The eyes of our fighting men are upon us to see if we are backing them.

... The eyes of our Allies are upon us to see if we are with them.

... The eyes of our enemies are upon us to see if we are soft enough to fall for a non-victorious, here-today-gone-tomorrow peace ...

Patriotic Prudence

GRADUALLY as the government's need of [illegible] to prosecute the war has been met [illegible] campaigns to encourage popular [illegible] in federal securities the importance [illegible] has impressed itself upon the people.

[illegible] as a whole [illegible] in War Bonds was the [illegible] whether an amount of inducement could persuade them to give the government their [illegible]. To the extent that inflation has been [illegible] from the [illegible] of [illegible] their money can be [illegible] would have been [illegible] with inflation control [illegible] successful compared with any previous wartime experience in the United States.

The amount of War Bonds held by ordinary investors who have been buying them on schedule and in response to special campaigns, such as the one now starting, has reached a total representing important money. Prudent citizens have made the most of the opportunity to increase their margin of security out of war incomes which represented surplus buying power that could not be used advantageously. Beyond the individuals has been the investment of organizations in government securities—and beyond them all has been the government's ability to draw on the savings of its people for the funds it needed to prosecute the war.

The success of the Fourth War Loan drive is a foregone conclusion. Patriotic prudence will do the job, as it has done it in every previous drive and will continue to do it until the war has been won.

Another Partition of Poland

WHETHER the next partition of Poland will prove more equitable than previous partitions resulting from friction between the Russians and Prussians is the direct question in the current controversy over the fate of that nation; a change in its boundaries is a foregone conclusion. If the Russians forego the opportunity which military success has given them to make a harsh and arbitrary settlement, that will be a triumph for enlightened diplomacy. Their apparent inclination to take Polish rights and feelings into consideration is perhaps the best omen in the war to date for post-war settlements based on something more than unadorned power.

The Russians cannot be expected to forget that the Poles were unwilling to accept the Curzon (in honor of Lord Curzon, British foreign minister who proposed it) line after World war I. Poland made war on Russia to get more territory and when the war went badly called on the Allies for help. Though no official aid was forthcoming, the French sent Gen. Weygand, who extricated them, with the aid of Allied military supplies. The British historian Lord d'Abernon lists the result among the 16 decisive battles of the world, on the ground that failure would have opened the whole of central Europe to Russian influence.

The war was settled by the Treaty of Riga in 1921. Poland, basing its claims on the Polish frontier as it had existed in 1772, took about one fourth of the territory known as White Russia, containing upward of 1,500,000 Russian inhabitants. The friction generated by their inclusion in Poland did not interfere seriously with Polish-Russian relations until the beginning of war in 1939, when one of Russia's opening moves made in apparent collaboration with Germany, was to regain what it never had been reconciled to losing. Poles who are not reconciled to losing anything now should not forget that Russian irreconcilability also must be considered—and that without Russia all of Poland would be safely in the hands of the Germans.

Universal Complaint

ONE of the advantages of a free press which sometimes seems to be a disadvantage is full information about national shortcomings. These may appear to be unique, due to the fact they are not reported in countries with a gagged press, or even a press with tight censorship. For example, strikes and absenteeism are not peculiar to the United States in wartime, though one may get that impression because he does not hear about them elsewhere.

The German Labor Research institute, however, has been looking into absenteeism in Germany, with its findings reported in Adolf Hitler's own newspaper, according to office of war information. The institute finds an inordinate amount of "sickness" among the young and healthy. "There is no doubt," it declares, "that the incidence of illness and absence from work is above all influenced by the workers' inner attitude; in other words, that it is largely a question of the individual's sense of responsibility."

With their characteristic aptitude for analysis, the Germans who have been pondering absenteeism have come up with just about the nearest summation of the case possible. It is also reassuring to be reminded that it is one of the universal complaints and has nothing distinctly to do with the American war attitude.

News Behind the News

Wholesale Punishment Not Part of Juvenile Discipline Program Urged by Mallon.

By PAUL MALLON

W[illegible]

[illegible] people get [illegible] that they do not [illegible] difference between [illegible] and punishment. The best [illegible] may never need punishment. If discipline were perfect there would be no reason for punishment.

Intelligent Punishment

Nor does punishment mean that every [illegible] Joe Doakes should be taken out to the woodshed every noon on the hour—or perhaps at all. Punishment must be intelligent.

That is all modern mental science teaches, as I get it. It is truly old-fogeyism, it is worse, it is a crime—for irate parents or teachers to flail youths unjustly, unfairly, indiscriminately.

Punishment can be more effective in a thousand other ways [illegible] or rules. It depends on the child. The denial of something a child nearly wants could be a [illegible] to him than a [illegible] or her [illegible].

Punishment should differ as widely as personalities differ. It must only to be effective—that is, corrective.

Modern psychological science merely teaches that the Victorian methods of physical punishment were more often unintelligent than not, indeed sometimes expressed the sadism and mental deficiency of the donor. Overlordly and exasperated parents could ruin a child's mental outlook for life with unintelligent punishment.

The Opposite Extreme

That was a crime against society. It had to be changed. But it is a far greater crime today to rush to the opposite extreme and seek to abolish both discipline and punishment. It is greater because it creates such situations as we are involved in today.

Inhibitions is another misunderstood word. Popular tomfoolery holds it to be a calamity for anyone, even an adult to have an inhibition.

Is a parentally induced inhibition against adolescent girls having sexual relations with soldiers and sailors a bad thing? (One soldier was written me protesting that servicemen are not responsible for conditions, that the child-girls chase the men and the problem is one of enforcement against them by their parents, not against soldiers and sailors—and there is evidence to support his point).

Inhibition and Common Sense

But is an inhibition against stealing bad? Murder? Indecency? No scientists I ever encountered in books or person ever contended so. If they did, you and I would know they were wrong.

But the people generally do not always understand these simple obvious common-sense truths. They have not been given that type of leadership by prominent people, yes even by the press, radio and magazines, in the pulpit or in the schools.

The loose-running theorists are exerting the preponderant public pressure today—the most popular pressure.

As long as they do, you will have ever increasing juvenile delinquency, and a nation degenerating rapidly in its moral fibre or strength.

Milwaukee, Wis., convinced that one reason for traffic trouble is the practice of locating bus stops at intersections, is using a mid-block stop plan on down-town streets for a 90-day trial period, according to American Municipal association. Automobile parking has been eliminated to provide for the stops. Buses operate in right-hand lanes and are not held back at intersections behind street cars. As a result, bus runs are speeded up.

Convention City

Chicago Has No Rival for Title.

CHOICE of Chicago by the Republican party for its convention in June, and the virtual certainty that the Democrats will choose it for their convention, too, increases that city's hold on the title of Convention City.

Its situation as the nearest large city to the geographical center of population makes it a natural choice in any convention year. The Republicans have chosen it an even dozen times. The party has held 22 national conventions so far, 11 of them in Chicago, four in Philadelphia, two in Cleveland, one each in Baltimore, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Before the Civil war, political conventions were held almost uniformly in Baltimore, chiefly because it was only 40 miles from Washington and easily accessible by the relatively primitive transportation in use at the time.

Since the Civil war, the Democrats, like the Republicans, have favored Chicago. They have met there six times, in St. Louis three times, in New York and Baltimore twice, and in Cincinnati, Denver, Houston, Kansas City, Philadelphia and San Francisco once for each city.

A convention city must meet a number of requirements. It must have adequate hotel accommodations, an auditorium with floor accommodations for several thousand delegates and alternates and gallery accommodations for several thousand spectators. The city must contribute to the convention and other party expenses a considerable sum, raised from hotels, restaurants, stores and other business groups profiting from the convention. This year Chicago offered each party $75,000. In 1940 it contributed $150,000 for the Democratic convention, while Philadelphia, which was the scene of the Republican convention, contributed $200,000.

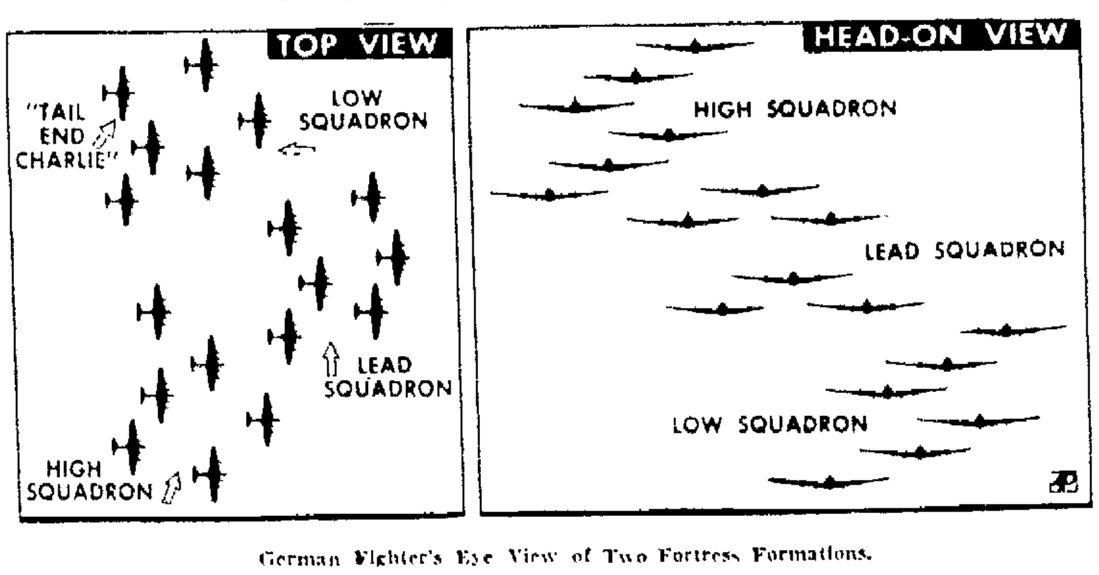
Flying Fortresses in Fighting Form

The Way They Line Up Is Their Secret of Success in Europe.



German Fighter's Eye View of Two Fortress Formations.

• • •

By FRANKLIN BANKER

Associated Press Writer

A U. S. BOMBARDMENT DIVISION HEADQUARTERS, England. In aerial warfare it's the formation that counts, and that's why the Allies are winning the air battle of Europe.

The U. S. Flying Fortresses that are blasting the German war machine to bits use a tight formation utilizing the maximum fire power of their 50-caliber machine guns.

Although these guns enable a Fortress to fire in every direction, it is vulnerable to multiple Nazi fighter planes when it gets out of formation and flies alone. Knowing they are potentially "dead ducks" in such a case, the smartest pilots try to fly the tightest possible formation.

This formation, called a staggered altitude flight, is a product of the war on Germany. Air Force officers credit it to a "flying and shooting" brigadier general, Curtis E. LeMay, 37, of Columbus, O. He put the idea into effect within six days after he landed here a year ago.

Revived Daylight Bombing

General LeMay, who has pioneered in several important Army Air Corps developments, initiated the most remarkable flight of the Eighth Air Force—the shuttle—bombing of Regensburg. He is commanding officer of this bombardment division.

The "LeMay formation," adopted by the Air Corps as standard operating procedure, made American daylight bombings a success after the Germans and the British abandoned daytime raids as impractical.

It was a revolutionary shift from the "javelin" formation developed early in the Pacific war.

The "javelin" formation comprised sharp V-shaped groups of three planes, the groups following one another at the same altitude. This proved inadequate against the mounting strength and ingenuity of German fighter attacks.

General LeMay's answer was to line up his bombers cagily at staggered altitudes to provide the widest cover of protective fire for every ship in the formation.

Planes Are Staggered

A group of "Forts" usually comes at the Nazis in three squadrons aligned like a circular stairway. The lead squadron is in the middle. Below it and slightly to the rear at its left is squadron two, also called the "low squadron." Squadron three, the "high squadron," is above, slightly to the rear and right of the lead squadron.

The planes are staggered in the three dimensions of the formation—length, breadth and depth. They fly only 50 feet apart. Many groups of bombers placed like this participate in a mission, as a bombing raid is called.

The number of "Forts" in the formation may vary. Sometimes there are 18, sometimes 21.

The left rear plane of the low squadron is flying in what some pilots call the "Tail End Charlie" position or "Purple Heart corner." In dubbing it that they claim it undergoes more casualties than the other positions.

However, some officers claim the "Tail End Charlie" position suffers no more casualties than other planes in the group.

This closely-knit formation makes it virtually suicide for an enemy fighter to attack. Some steel-nerved Nazis plunge head-on at the formation. Usually they are slaughtered by the system of cross-fire with which the Fortresses protect one another.

Nazi Fighters Outgunned

The Eighth Air Force on some raids has put in the air enough Fortresses to exceed the fire power of all the German fighter planes scattered over the far-flung western air front.

As all these German fighters cannot be gotten into the air at the same time and place, the "Forts" have the edge on them.

Hence, the Germans are experimenting with rocket shells and other new methods of combating the B17's, which so far have held their own.

Husky, blackhaired LeMay, a veteran pilot, goes along on a raid himself when new risks are involved, even to manning the machine guns.

Last August he led and commanded the Fortresses which demolished the huge Messerschmitt plant factory at Regensburg, Germany. The bombers shot down 140 enemy planes during the 1,400-mile flight from England to North Africa. On the shuttle trip back to England they destroyed an airfield at Bordeaux, France.

"Hit the target right the first time!" the general ordered his men. They did.

How Soon?

When United States News asked leading figures in the automotive industry how soon after the end of the German phase of the war peacetime manufacture of auto products for civilian use could be resumed, it obtained answers like these:

C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corp.: "It turned [illegible] we could be producing some [illegible] three months and a pretty [illegible] in six months."

Ward M. Canaday, president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc.: "Normally speaking, about six months will be required for reconversion of automobile plants from wartime to peacetime operation."

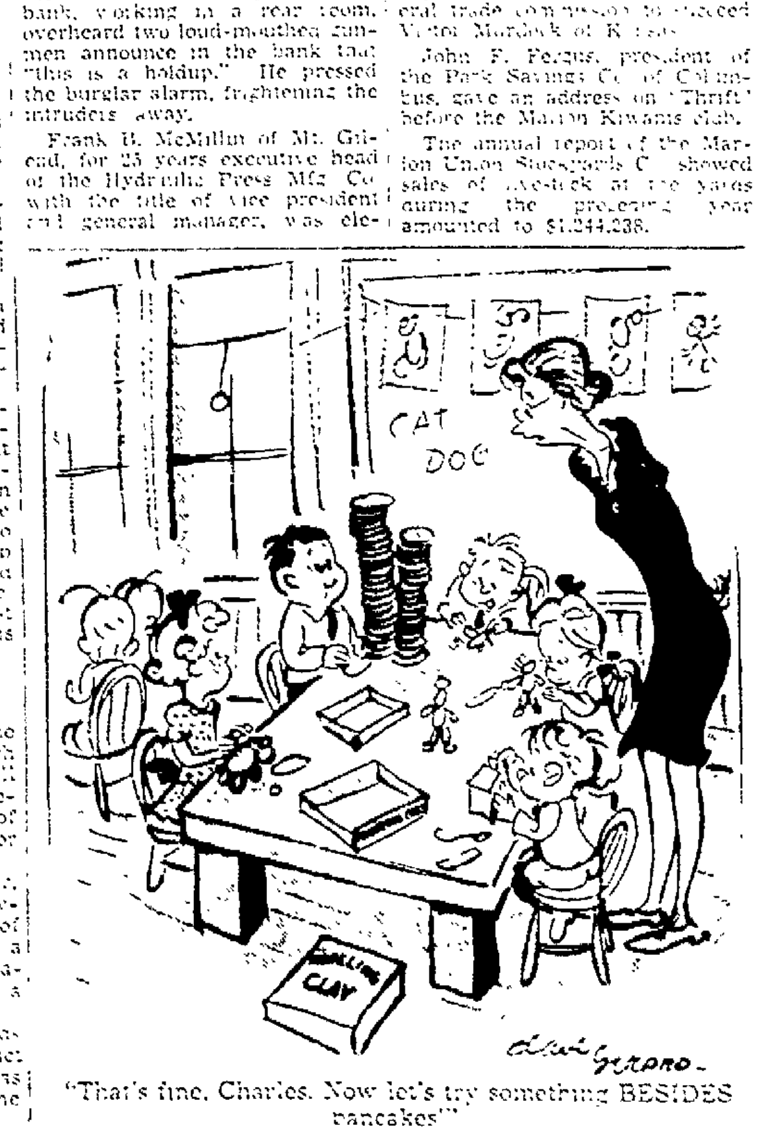
George T. Christopher, president of Packard Motor Co.: "The quickest answer is to quote an estimate of [illegible] months after the termination of war contracts."

Fun for Censor

BOSTON—Caricatures on the face or back of envelopes which delight "the boy friend," as well as the military censor, have become an important feature of Marie Rose's mail to her sailor sweetheart.

Marie, a Boston stenographer, expresses her emotions by drawing on the envelope a picture of a young lady giving a sailor a great big kiss or perhaps caricatures a grass-skirted girl in a South Sea island setting.

Marie says that several friends have copied her fad and the fact that none of her drawings has been obliterated indicates that the censor approves.



"That's fine, Charles. Now let's try something BESIDES pancakes!"

A Word To Veterans

10,000,000 Men Who Have D[illegible] Their Best in This War Must S[illegible] Together When It's Over.

By DAMON RUNYON

SOLDIERS of the United States: I [illegible] you as a war veteran, as a comrade.

You will fight the present conflict [illegible] inevitable conclusion of victory for the A[illegible].

You will [illegible] the enemies of your [illegible] to the death.

You will fight bravely, obeying the [illegible] your superior officers, without questioning [illegible] wisdom, or the wisdom of your commander-in-chief, the President of the United States.

Your service will be, must be, [illegible] faithful. You will not by word or deed [illegible] hair's breadth from your oath as a soldier.

Then, when the battle is won, you will [illegible] home, those of you who are not left sleeping [illegible] distant steaming jungles or on foreign shores.

You will come home to what?

You will come home to a civilian population groggy from an orgy of wild spending, [illegible] bling, night clubbing and boozing, the [illegible] which the world has never before seen. In this civilian population will be many who waxed fat on far profits and black market[illegible]ing, who have hoarded gasoline and [illegible] visions and who in strikes and absentee[illegible] prolonged your service against the enemy.

YOU will come home to the same old [illegible] cal hocus-pocus of selfish and unscrupulous men willing to sacrifice honor itself to [illegible] their place at the public trough, to the old hypocrisy and chicanery by which men [illegible] never heard a gun fired seek to perpetuate [illegible] political order.

Soldiers of the United States, I say t[illegible] that you who survive this war will ha[illegible] your hands the power, properly consol[illegible] to give the old soldier the first square d[illegible] has ever received in the history of the n[illegible].

You have never before come home in [illegible] cient numbers to be more than a minor po[illegible] element, but now you will have 10,000,000 [illegible] of your own and 10,000,000 more votes of [illegible] families. These votes can be welded int[illegible] most tremendous force ever possessed by [illegible] group in this country.

You might conceivably add to your str[illegible] some of the several millions of votes of [illegible] veterans of other wars, though most of [illegible] have long since succumbed to the same danger of old party assimilation that will menace [illegible] and are, alas, even adding to the threat [illegible] your vast strength will be scattered over [illegible] eral different organizations and rendered [illegible]potent.

YOU have among you many men possessing the attributes of leadership, young men of wisdom who could lead you and the very [illegible] tion itself into new realms of political t[illegible] and political righteousness.

Your prayer should be that they will come forward immediately after the war to m[illegible] you into one solid formation.

Men who say that a man who has served [illegible] country in war is not entitled to special [illegible] when, as the man is fighting, the civilian po[illegible]ulation behind his back indulges in de[illegible] at his expense, state a false premise. The [illegible] who leaves his youth and his health, if [illegible] life, on the battlefield fighting for the [illegible] of his homeland is entitled to every [illegible] favor that can be given him, and he is e[illegible] to demand special favor if it is not g[illegible] willingly.

It will be said by some that it is not right or proper to advise you, the men who are fighting for a better world, to seek the aggrandizement of your group after the war, but those who [illegible] this will not be in uniform, they will be [illegible] who are drawing nice civilian salaries and [illegible] in comfort.

IF it is right and proper for men and women to organize as Republicans or Democrats [illegible] seek to impose their political ideas on the [illegible] it is right and proper for the men who [illegible] making the nation secure to organize for their own protection, and to the end that they [illegible] not again, as always before, be men [illegible] standing with hats in hand begging from cheap politicians not fit to clean their shoes.

Soldiers of the United States, I am [illegible] to so organize.

Head of the House

By Truman Twill

One of our clients has made it known [illegible] sucker for reports in the Twillery [illegible] Says he thinks the cat is a lot more interesting than some of the other drivel that gets in [illegible] column about things of no importance. [illegible] brother, it's your idea.

This is no ordinary tom cat, but [illegible] Gargantua which started out as a [illegible] and now is running the place to suit [illegible] Fish on the menu every other day and [illegible] easy chair.

His tail alone weighs three pounds although still growing, is already as big as a gas pipe.

(If anyone wants to know how [illegible] cat's tail, it is done by laying the [illegible] bathroom scales and stroking the cat [illegible] relaxes.)

We will not give his whole weight for being called a liar, but no one on [illegible] wrestles him any more.

The explanation for our tom's [illegible] ordinary size—he was a kitten [illegible] last Labor day—is his habit of getting [illegible] in places—drawers, closets, fruit [illegible] refrigerators, chiefly the last. At [illegible] he has had to be rescued from the [illegible] while it was full of water, cupboards, drawers and linen closets. Whenever [illegible] up missing for a few hours, he [illegible] to be shut up somewhere.

His favorite hideout is the refrigerator he points during most of his waking [illegible] bird dog points a covey of quail. When it is open, he jumps in and if not appre[illegible] the act, which occasionally happens, [illegible] everything edible until someone com[illegible] the door. The temperature doesn't bother him and apparently he see[illegible] just fine. If he thinks it's time to [illegible] no one has shown up, he rattles the [illegible] which gets immediate action beca[illegible] is always waiting for someone else [illegible] the ice cubes and will come running.

Another one of his tricks is ans[illegible] telephone, though he hasn't got on [illegible] of placing calls yet. But on incom[illegible] can be just as catty and purr as [illegible] No one knows what happens when [illegible] away and he's running the place [illegible] but there aren't as many incom[illegible] there used to be. For all anyone [illegible] goof may be answering the door [illegible] you can imagine what a caller must [illegible] he finds himself looking down a tom[illegible]

He also helps get out this column [illegible] which is something that not many [illegible] as we said at the beginning, he [illegible] nary cat.

Clarification Of Story Awaited from Red Capital

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Certainly disconcerting but not necessarily of great significance, is the grape-vine rumor published by the Communist party newspaper Pravda in Moscow to the effect that two English officials have been discussing a separate peace with Nazi Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop in one of the seacoast cities of the Pyrenees peninsula, and that this "meeting did not remain without results."

The only point of importance is why Pravda should publish such a rumor. Both American and British governments have given their bond they will not make a separate peace.

There's nothing thus far to guide us to a solution of the mystery. Obviously Pravda couldn't print such dispatch without official sanction.

Could it be this is an indirect rebuke to the Anglo-American allies for their reportedly favorable reception of the Polish reply to Moscow's offer to negotiate the territorial dispute on the basis of the Curzon boundary? The Soviet government has interpreted the Polish answer as a repudiation of its offer, and has declined to negotiate with the Polish government in exile on grounds diplomatic relations have been interrupted.

Nobody outside Moscow knows the solution to our puzzle. We must wait for Moscow to clear it up.

Allied "home-front" diplomacy sustained one sharp setback over the week-end but at the same time appears to have achieved a striking success in another direction.

The set-back is in connection with the bitter Russo-Polish territorial dispute. The Poles on Friday, replying to the Soviet offer to negotiate on the basis of the Curzon line—that is, the same border established by the Red army of occupation in 1939—asked for Anglo-American mediation.

Moscow's reply is that the Poles have ignored the Curzon line offer, and the Soviet declares that it cannot negotiate officially with the Polish government in exile, in view of the fact that diplomatic relations have been broken.

Situation Unchanged

That seems to leave the imbroglio about where it was—bad but not much worse. Observers glean some hope from the fact that the Muscovites don't say they wouldn't negotiate with a reconstituted Polish government. There are some members of the present Polish government for whom the Russians have a particular dislike. It may be that the opening of negotiations will depend on the elimination of these cabinet officials.

As an offset to this unhappy Russo-Polish development there is encouragement for the belief that a major victory may have been achieved as a result of the unheralded conference in French Morocco between British Premier Churchill and General De Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French.

We are officially informed that these two personages reached agreement on the part that the French are to play in the coming invasion of western Europe. Further, they discussed the vastly important matter of the establishment of a provisional French government after the invasion, and reviewed the principal questions in Franco-British relations—and they have represented some very hot spots.

Does this mean that the barbed-wire relations between De Gaulle and the Anglo-American allies finally are to be adjusted? It is to be hoped that it does, for this friction has represented a serious weakness in the allied armor.

Eisenhower Plays Part

Certainly the tone of the official statement is intended to convey the idea that things are taking satisfactory shape. It may be significant that General Eisenhower, enroute from Washington to assume his new duties as supreme commander for the invasion, is said to have conferred with Churchill prior to the latter's conference with De Gaulle.

De Gaulle's leadership until recently has been a matter of concern to both London and Washington, and I was told by an informed source in London that it was feared the general had ambitions which didn't fit the allied program for the restoration of France. Possibly this was due in considerable degree to the fact that this forceful personality is very much an individualist and hard to handle.

In any event, De Gaulle's strength has grown, as witness the ease with which he disposed of the famous General Giraud when the latter seemed to be challenging the De Gaulle leadership in Algiers with the blessings of Britain and America. De Gaulle's followers, outspoken in their indignation over what they regard as unjust treatment of their hero, declare that eighty per cent of the people of France are his supporters.

De Gaulle Stood Alone

They point out in his defense that he, and he alone, was the one who picked up the fallen French standard at the time of the allied collapse in the face of Hitler's blitzkrieg, and gathered about him the following which has grown into a large army. They say, too, that he is the hope and inspiration of the vast underground force which is waiting in France to rise up against the Germans when the allied invasion comes.

If the Churchill-De Gaulle parley means that peace finally has been cemented between the Anglo-American allies and this strong-willed leader, it must be a cause of vast satisfaction because of the imminence of the invasion. The allies will need every ounce of French good-will and help when the fateful day arrives.

ALLIES GAIN PACIFIC KEYS

Situation Further Improved by Capture of Two Important Points.

By The Associated Press

The allies' position in the Southwest Pacific was materially improved today by the capture of two key points from the Japanese along with another heavy aerial blow that cost the enemy heavily in planes and in damage to its shipping.

Week-end communiques also told of 10 Nipponese raids on primarily American holdings on New Britain, New Guinea and in the Solomons, but damage was reported as light.

In the Far East, China-based American bombers attacked the Hongay power plant in French Indo-China, while allied ground troops occupied two more villages in western Burma in a slow advance toward the Japanese base at Akyab.

Climaxing a bitter four-day battle on the western tip of New Britain, United States Marines seized Hill 660 to gain the enemy's major defensive bulwark in its Borgen bay line of the Cape Gloucester invasion front. The Japanese now face further pushbacks in a campaign which already has cost them more than 6,000 casualties.

Australian troops who forced open the Sio gateway to northern New Guinea moved three miles beyond the fallen enemy barge center to within approximately 50 miles of American army units at Saidor. Another Aussie force advanced inland toward Madang, big Nipponese defense base 55 miles northwest of Saidor.

Allied fighters and bombers raked enemy supply points and the barge line along the northeast coast of New Guinea.

Navy dive and torpedo bombers damaged seven Japanese cargo vessels, a light cruiser and a destroyer, and shot down 29 of 60 to 70 interceptors, in a midday attack on Simpson harbor at Rabaul, New Britain. Returning pilots said the destroyer and one cargo ship possibly were sunk. The raiders lost two bombers and eight fighters, but four of the pilots were saved.

The Japanese retaliated with nuisance raids on territory wrested from them by the allies, including Bougainville, Treasury, Vella Lavella, New Georgia and the Russell islands in the Solomons; Arawe, southwest of New Britain, and Saidor and the inland village of Dumpu on New Guinea.

FIND "GOAT GOLD"

By The Associated Press

SALMON, Idaho — There aren't any dentists working the Salmon river uplands in Idaho's primitive area, but nevertheless more than a few wild goats have "gold" teeth.

Exhaustive examinations of the rugged country have been launched because taxidermists claimed they found flakes of "gold" embedded in teeth of wild goats brought in to be stuffed, but there have been no bonanzas.

Frank Keefer, taxidermist, says it's only fool's gold. Once he retrieved metallic flakes from the hairs of a mountain goat, Keefer related, but a forest ranger told him the substance was mica, explaining there are whole mountains of the gold-like ore in the Salmon river country.

LONG WAY AROUND

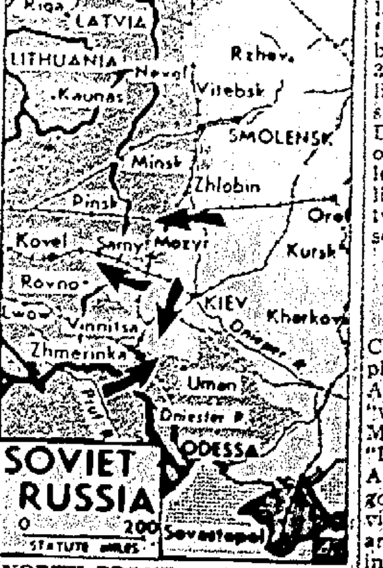
ALEXANDRIA, La.—Staff Sgt. Henry Ezhegaray recently received a Christmas box which his parents mailed from Tehachapi, Calif., a year ago.

The gifts traveled some 15,000 miles before catching up with the sergeant here, going to Australia, New Guinea and back to Australia and then to the United States. Ezhegaray was transferred here from duty in the south Pacific.



NORTH FRONT ACTIVE. Confirming the German admission that the Reds have rammed a hole in their defenses in the Leningrad area, the Russians have reported a break-through 28 miles northwest of Nevel taking them to within less than 70 miles of the Latvian border. The Soviet forces also kept the Germans on the defensive in the area southwest of Kiev and west of Sarny.

SUBSIDY PROGRAM STILL IN DEADLOCK

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—Administration leaders indicated today they were ready to throw the entire food subsidy program—which will end in a month unless action is taken to continue it—before the senate for debate.

Senator Barkley (D-Ky), majority leader, said no progress had been made toward a compromise agreement under which at least part of the program could be salvaged.

Barkley asked Chairman Wagner (D-NY) to assemble the senate banking committee to try and force the issue to the floor. Supporters of the price control program, which the administration considers its principal weapon against soaring living costs, hope to continue some food subsidy payments.

Even a limited program would encounter strong opposition in both senate and house, opponents warned.

BRADLEY WON SPURS IN TUNISIA, SICILY

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 17—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, disclosed today to be senior commander of American ground forces in the United Kingdom—and possibly U. S. ground force commander for the western invasion — won wide recognition for his field work in West Tunisia and Sicily.

Bradley, who is 50, succeeded Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. last April as commander of the U. S. Second army corps. AP War Correspondent Hal Boyle described him as "thorough, shrewd, thrifty of his men's blood and lives, a master of military tactics and as natural personally as one of his native Missouri cornfields.

"He does his job the way a farmer would—always the simplest way. I watched him work at the front for more than a year and I never have heard a soldier or a correspondent say a word against him."

Bradley received major credit for the victorious drive of the second corps into Bizerte, Tunisia. He took over from Patton when the Americans were shifted north.

One of the army's best infantry commanders, Bradley is tall, thin, and rather reserved. His fellow officers regard him as a great tactician.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, declared today "there is no truth" to the report published in Pravda, Communist party paper in Moscow, that two English officials had conferred secretly with German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop on terms of a separate peace.

"There is no truth to this story," Halifax said. "People who believe it will believe anything."

He spoke about the time that Secretary of State Cordell Hull was telling a press conference he had no information that would bear out the Pravda report.

News dispatches telling of publication of the report in Pravda under the heading "Rumors from Cairo" aroused extreme interest among officials here, especially since the Communist journal is regarded as an authoritative publication whose dispatches are more likely than not to serve the designs of Russian officialdom.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 17—British official quarters said today they knew nothing of the Pravda story of reported peace talks with German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and declined further authoritative comment.

It was felt the report may have originated from rumors circulating several weeks ago that anti-Nazi Germans in Portugal were seeking to negotiate with the British.

HONORS PAID TODAY TO OHIO WAR HERO

By The Associated Press

FORT KNOX, Ky., Jan. 17—The United States today paid its highest military honors to a 25-year-old Army private from Ohio who gave his life on New Georgia island to enable his platoon to escape from the withering fire of a Japanese machine gun nest.

Speaking for the Army and for the nation, Maj. Gen. Charles L. Scott, commanding general of the armored command, posthumously presented the congressional medal of honor to Private Rodger W. Young of Clyde, Ohio, whose example, Scott said, "is an inspiration to all American soldiers and to the entire nation."

Mrs. Nicholas Young of Clyde, O., received the medal for her son. Her husband, a war worker, and her second son, Nicholas Jr., 16, stood by her side as a company of armored infantry and a military band saluted the dead hero.

Lt. Col. R. F. Rickard read the war department citation which told how Private Young, twice wounded, ignored orders to withdraw with the rest of his platoon and deliberately drew fire from a Japanese machine gun nest so the remainder of the platoon could fall back to a protected position.

While his buddies withdrew, the citation continued, Young staged a one-man advance on the machine gun nest and, using his rifle and hand grenades, killed several Japanese before he himself was killed.

Reorganization of Ohio State League Gives Marion Spot in Minor Loop Baseball

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

The reformation of the Ohio State baseball league this winter by genial Joe Donnelly of Columbus is symbolic of the attitude of sports leaders the country over who are braving the shortages and restrictions brought on by the war to keep athletics, professional and amateur alike, alive.

Anyone who would have had the audacity a few months ago to say that Ohio's Class D minor league loop would be back in operation for the 1944 season, probably would have been branded a gossip-monger, to put it in printable language. At the time, it seemed next to impossible for anyone, no matter how much organizing ability he possessed, to put the defunct loop back on its feet. Only nine minor circuits out of the 41 which flourished in 1941 survived to play out their schedules last season. Post-season observations tended toward the belief that even more of the loops would drop out before the opening of the 1944 campaign curtain.

But along came Mr. Donnelly, whose devotion to baseball must be extraordinary to involve himself in such a big job, to start a revival movement. And much to the confounded arm-chair experts' astonishment this movement has been a success.

The Ohio State league, the most recent entrant of which is sports-loving Marion, will play this summer on a 126-game schedule, at that. At the latest tabulation, nine and possibly ten other minor leagues will accompany the Buckeye outfit in its daring 1944 venture. Six of these leagues are Class D or above—the American Association, International and Pacific Coast leagues, all Class AA, the Southern Association and Texas loops, Class A-1, and the Class A Eastern league. Only tentative Class B circuit is the Piedmont league.

In Class D along with Donnelly's pet, are the Appalachain and Pony loops. The Ohio State league may be elevated to Class C before the season is over if interest of spectators and the quality of play merits that recognition by W. G. Braham, czar of the minor leagues and second in authority only to K. M. Landis, baseball's dictator.

The Ohio loop disbanded after a dismal 1941 outing with six teams. Attendance took a nose-dive that year and managers found it increasingly difficult to find players. Of the half-dozen clubs in the loop that year, none have as yet announced their intention to enter this year's reborn circuit. Tiffin and Fremont both showed interest during early stages of organization work carried on by Donnelly but as the League Prexy put it "Had two strikes on them from the start" because of their location and size.

Because he realizes that his city has been eliminated as a league possibility, Charles LeCrone, president of the Tiffin team, which was in the loop when it was erased by the pending war three seasons back, has agreed to make his lighting plant available to Marion. Members of the committee appointed to study backing a team here are scheduled to negotiate with LeCrone for the lights.

Another city which still is being considered for a loop berth is Mansfield, which won the pennant in 1937, the last season that Marion participated in professional ball. Mansfield was placed in the "not interested" category when a preliminary organization meeting was held in Columbus a week ago. Mansfielders remembered that their one and only ball field suitable for professional play had burned down.

* * *

On the surface, it would look as if only a handful of players could be found to play in the loop this year. But that's where Donnelly holds the key which may mean success in his reorganizing exploit in time when manpower has meant the undoing of countless athletic enterprises.

The major league clubs, with which the Ohio clubs have working agreements, will furnish the players. However, boys and men from all over the state will be given a chance to try out for all teams. Many diamond performers are expected to be furnished in this way.

Although Marion has been without professional baseball for seven years and hardball was practically non-existent last summer, there still may be latent talent in its hundreds of ball-playing youngsters. Of course, most of the Harding and St. Mary High school seniors will be inducted into a branch of the armed forces before the summer is over, but some may still be around long enough to get in a season of professional baseballing. You can look for a greater demand for scholastic baseball teams in Marion and vicinity this spring with the advent of the season opening early in May.

Donnelly said that most of the players supplied by the parent big league clubs will arrive in Marion and the other loop cities anywhere between two days and two weeks before the season inaugural. The major teams will provide the hopefuls with training in April. Some of this training will be done at the regular spring camps of the clubs or in the league cities.

* * *

Some, perhaps many of the boys (mostly 16 and 17-year-olds) who will be playing in the Ohio State loop this summer, may advance in rapid strides up the minor league ladders until they are members of Double A or even major league teams within three or four years. Some may get to the top before that. As Donnelly commented, there is a certain feeling of pride in being able to say that "So-and-So played with the home town team a few years ago and is now a big timer."

* * *

Representatives of the farm systems of the big league clubs present at last Sunday's league meeting were: Eddie Gilliland of the St. Louis Browns; Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants, Bud Whetsel of the Indians, Jack McAllister of the Boston Braves, Fred Hunter of the Cardinals, and Frank Rickey, Marty Purtell and Jack Schwarz, all of the Giants. Some of these men are looked for at next Sunday's meeting at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel in the Capital city.

* * *

Marionites, who are good in reminiscing and who especially like to spin their favorite yarns about baseball of yesteryear, will remember Emmett "Turk" Reilly as a promising young catcher with the Marion team in the Ohio-Pennsylvania league in 1909 and 1910. Reilly is now assisting Donnelly in setting up the Ohio State league and was in Marion for two days last week.

Reilly was on the receiving end of a battery combination which was known throughout the state for its effectiveness. The pitcher was Ed Zmich, who later was sold by the Marion team to the St. Louis Cards for $4,500, a considerable sum in those days but which doesn't even approximate today's waiver price in the majors. Any Marion dad or grandad will tell Junior all there is to know about "Zmich and Reilly" at the drop of a hint.

Reilly played his first professional game in old Webb Field in Marion in 1907 but not in the garb of a Marion player. He was with Mansfield at the time. After a successful two-year stay in Marion, he was sold to Louisville in the American Association in the middle of the 1910 campaign.

* * *

Concerning the problems to be faced by the Ohio league this summer in procuring balls, bats, and gloves, Reilly, who is a representative of the Wilson Sporting Goods Co. professional baseball division, says there is nothing to worry about. He stated there will be no shortage of equipment to organized baseball teams but for sandlot outfits it will be a different tale. The boys who play for fun will be out of luck unless they have an ample supply of horsehides from the 1943 season, Reilly commented.

* * *

President Donnelly [illegible] plenty of diamond experience in his day, too, altho [illegible] professionally. He played [illegible] semi-pro outfits in central Ohio. Donnelly's secretary at the Curtiss-Wright airplane factory in Columbus, where he is employed, is Miss Betty Wolfe of Marion.

Formal Action To Be Taken Sunday in Columbus.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17 — Formal reorganization of the class D Ohio state baseball league—with Springfield, Zanesville, Lima, Newark, Middletown and Marion holding franchises—is scheduled next Sunday, President Joe Donnelly said today.

The league folded after the 1941 campaign because of the war, and is the first of the minors to return to active play. Each of the clubs, Donnelly said, will be a big league farm, and the talent will consist mostly of 16- and 17-year-old players.

Marion came into the fold last week when some $10,000 in stock was subscribed at a meeting of business men there, Donnelly said.

Donnelly declared the loop was "ready to go" as a six-team circuit, but that if Mansfield wanted in he might boost the clubs to eight with Fremont taking up the franchise it held in the defunct circuit. Mansfield will be represented at next Sunday's session, the prexy declared.

Donnelly planned a swing around the circuit this week, with Newark scheduled as his first stop.

"There isn't much point to making the trip," Donnelly said, "for everything appears set. However, I want to look the parks and other facilities over before we organize formally next Sunday. Things are looking fine, and I expect a great season."

DE PAUL IS DROPPED FROM UNBEATEN LIST

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 — Camp Grant and Iowa in the midwest and Albright in the East moved to the top of the unbeaten college basketball list today following DePaul's surprise defeat by little Valparaiso of Indiana.

Valparaiso rudely ended DePaul's hopes of an unbeaten season by upsetting the Chicagoans, 65-57, ending the Demons' 13-game winning streak.

Camp Grant now has won 13 in a row. Iowa and Albright each boasts seven straight.

Leading developments of a week which saw play restricted mostly to sectional contests, including the 15-12 victory over Penn State scored over Pitt; Temple's five-game winning streak shattered by St. John's of Brooklyn; the two victories of the Norfolk, Va., Naval Training station over the Norfolk Naval Air station and Duke; Idaho's upset of Washington State; the two-game split between Rice and Arkansas; and Ohio State's two triumphs over Indiana.

By sections this is how the teams shape up:

East — Dartmouth can virtually clinch its seventh straight eastern intercollegiate league title by beating runnerup Pennsylvania Saturday.

Midwest — Purdue tops the Big Ten with a 4-0 league record, followed by Northwestern 3-0 and Ohio State and Iowa each 2-0.

Big Six — Iowa State and Oklahoma tied for top, each with 2-0 league mark.

Southwest — Texas in first place in the Southwest conference.

South — Duke is favored to win Southern conference.

Rocky Mountains — Colorado College which trounced Denver twice 64-33 and 53-36, over the week-end, appears outstanding.

Far West — California and UCLA lead the southern division of the Pacific Coast conference with Washington on top in the northern loop.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 — Some Pacific coast football followers think Andy Kerr may have started a 'trend' with his offensive maneuvers for the East-West game. With only 10 days of coaching, Andy and Dr. George Hauser taught the East team to run plays from the "T" or shift from it into the single or double wing or Notre Dame box formations.

Monday Matinee—Off his performance on a smooth armory floor Saturday, it looks as if Bill Hulse wouldn't have much trouble adjusting his stride to indoor running this winter. Not only was his 4:23.4 mile plenty fast under the conditions, but he did the first and last quarters in 62.5 and 66. . . . Frank Sinkwich, back in Georgia for a visit, claimed he was faster last season than he ever was in college. There were bigger guys chasing him, too . . . Rudy York, who made 155 hits in 155 games last season, needs only one more blow for a life-time major league total of 1,000.

* * *

All Aircraft Returned — The Consolidated Vultee Aircraft basketball team of Nashville, Tenn., played 558 minutes—nearly 14 complete games—this season before its first man was forced to drop out of formation via the four-foul route.

* * *

Service Dept. — Lieut. Commander Jim Crowley, ex-Fordham coach, has been transferred from a South Pacific rest camp to Admiral Halsey's staff as welfare and recreation officer for the entire South Pacific area . . . A total of 268 Navy and Marine trainees competed in Big Ten football last fall. After Bill Daley and Tony Butkovich, we dare you to try to name two.

Second Round Starts Tonight in County Cage League at Y

The second round in the eight-team Men's County league and four-squad women's circuit will get under way at the Y. M. C. A. tonight with three games on tap.

Meeting in the men's opener at 7:30 will be Kirkpatrick's five and Schneider Brothers' Tinners of Marion. The card will be concluded with a tilt between Universal Cooler and Green Camp, scheduled to start at 9:30.

Universal Cooler's club, under the direction of Chuck Reid, took the first round title with an undefeated slate. Huber Mfg. 14 More Entries Reported for Golden Gloves Here

Fourteen additional entries in Marion's Golden Gloves tournament to be staged in March were received by the special boxing committee of the Y's Men's Service club last week. This brings to 30 the number of Marion and vicinity youths entered in the event.

Entries were filed by the following hopeful pugilists, all of whom come from Marion:

The ages of these boys, as was the case in the first 16 who entered the tourney, range from 15 to 18 years. Many more entries are expected to be filed by city boys before the entry deadline Feb. 10 but tournament sponsors are especially eager to sign up more boxers from communities surrounding Marion.

Only three out-of-town entries have been received by the committee of which Wayne G. McCune is chairman—those of Jim Jeffries of Mt. Gilead, Calvin T. Snyder of Edison, and Blaine K. Fulton of Rimwood. There have been indications that four LaRue boys will enter the tourney. They include a heavyweight, one light-heavy, and a bantamweight or 118-pounder.

Training got under way at the Y. M. C. A. last Monday and progressed rapidly the rest of the week. Training sessions are being conducted by five trainers, all former boxers themselves, in a recently remodeled third floor room in the Y building. Entrants may work out every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday night from 7:30 to 9:30 until tourney time March 13, 14, and 17.

FORMER MARION MAN DIES SUDDENLY AT LIMA

Jules V. Barnd Stricken While Burning Weeds.

Jules V. Barnd of Lima, former Marion resident, was found dead Saturday evening in a field in the [illegible] Creek addition, Lima, where he had been burning weeds on some lots he owned. The body was found at 7:30 by police and Allen county officials who had been asked to conduct a search for him after his car had been found on the road near the addition. Authorities were notified after his wife, Mrs. Ethel Barnd, became alarmed when he did not return home for supper. Coroner Harry Lewis attributed his death to a heart ailment suffered while he was burning weeds. Part of his clothing was burned.

Mr. Barnd was the immediate past president of the Lima Realtors association. He went to Lima 14 years ago from Marion, and was associated with Harry Strasburg with offices in the Faurot building.

A native of Fostoria, he was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was a member of the Market Street Presbyterian church in Lima, the Masonic bodies of Marion and the Scottish Rite of Columbus.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Ethel Guernsey Barnd, and two sons, Capt. Charles Guernsey Barnd of Fort Dix, N. J., and Rev. William G. Barnd of Ashland, Me. A grandson and a sister also survive. He was a brother-in-law of Judge Charles Guernsey of the court of appeals.

The body is at the Davis Miller & Son funeral home at Lima.

State Moves To Block Liquor Black Market

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17—Ohio liquor permit holders buying distilled spirits for import into the state under liquor department "consents" hereafter will be required to furnish affidavits stating amounts paid for the merchandise, Liquor Director Don A. Fisher announced today.

Vendors selling to permit holders already are required to supply affidavits stating that OPA regulations have been complied with and Fisher indicated the new provision was designed to combat reported "black market" liquor operations.

The liquor department's affidavits also require persons issued "consents" to state they have made no payments other than sworn to, and have not agreed to make such payments. Violators of the regulation face suspension or revocation of their permits, officials said.

Senate Acts To End Contract Renegotiation

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—The senate finance committee agreed today to end war contract renegotiations at the close of this year, but left with President Roosevelt the power to extend or shorten the period six months either way, depending on business conditions.

Termination of renegotiations—the device by which the Army and Navy revise contracts to eliminate profits they consider excessive—has been one of the most controversial points in senate differences over the pending tax bill.

Under the present law renegotiations would be possible until three years after the war. Originally the senate's tax-writing committee tried to end the Army and Navy authority to reopen contracts abruptly with the close of the war.

BERGDOLL'S RELEASE FROM PEN DUE SOON

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the nation's number one draft dodger of the first World war and scion of a wealthy Philadelphia family, will be released from the army disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., a war department spokesman announced.

The exact date on which the 50-year-old Bergdoll will be given his freedom was not disclosed in the announcement made yesterday.

The former draft dodger, who failed to report for his army physical examination in 1917, was captured at his home in Philadelphia two years later and sentenced to five years in prison by an army court martial.

Shortly after he persuaded prison guards to take him to Maryland, where he said he had hidden a "pot of gold." Enroute he escaped and eventually made his way to Germany.

He married the daughter of a German city official in 1926 and returned to America and surrendered in 1939, after his wife's pleas to the United States government to grant him a pardon failed.

The U. S. district court at Philadelphia cleared the way for his eventual release when it nolle prossed all criminal indictments pending against him in October, 1941.

His wife and six children are now living on a farm at Downingtown, Pa. Informed by the war department announcement, Mrs. Bergdoll said "I'm glad he's on the way home at last."

KENTON — Corporal Carroll Rodenberger, Kenton, wrote home this week of taking part in the ceremonies at Teheran, Iran, when President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin met to discuss war problems. "Rather ironical, isn't it," he wrote, "me having to go three-fourths of the way around the world to a foreign land to see our president? He really looked good and gave us a fine speech."

England imposed a tax in the tenth century to provide money for buying off the Danish invaders.

MINES

informed the attorney general the tonnage of bituminous coal produced in the week of Nov. 15 was as substantial as in any previous week of 1943, and that output has not fallen below normal seasonal levels since that time.

"Nevertheless, based on our past experience with the coal mines, I am convinced that * * * their restoration to the owners at this time, when the contract negotiations are not completed, might lead to a recurrence of the work stoppages which have meant so great a loss of coal production in the past and which at this time, when the coal shortage is so severe, may well spell disaster." Ickes told the justice department.

"The slogan, 'no contract, no work' continued to represent the basic attitude of the miners with respect to the production of coal so long as the mines are in private hands."

Attorney General Biddle quoted Ickes' conclusions in his opinion, and declared return of the mines to private ownership under such circumstances would "frustrate the purposes of the original seizure." The return of possession probably would cause new work stoppages, he held, which in turn would cause another seizure.

PROFIT SALES CHECK LEADERS

Rails and Specialties Only Issues Able To Show Gain.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—A few rails and specialties managed to keep the advance going in today's stock market although many leaders faltered under light profit cashing.

Investment demand still was an important prop but some customers stood aside to await further Russian-Polish developments and the start of the big war bond drive.

Prices slipped here and there after a fairly fast and steady opening. Mild irregularity ruled near the fourth floor.

Modest gains scored for Farnsworth Television (at a new 1943-4 peak), Anaconda, Sperry and International Nickel. Losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, United Aircraft, Westinghouse, General Electric and American Telephone.

Harpster-Little Sandusky Institute Programs Set

The program has been completed for the Harpster - Little Sandusky Farmers' Institute and Fair Wednesday night and Thursday afternoon and evening at the Harpster school auditorium. Speakers will be Mrs. L. S. Foght of Seneca county and Charles W. Peters of Carroll county.

The first session will open at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday with a talk by Mrs. Foght and at 8:45 o'clock the first session of the Wyandot County War Production school will be held. Lunch will be served by the women of the Little Sandusky church at noon on Thursday and the second day's session will open at 1:15 p. m. and will include a talk by Mr. Peters. Trophies will be awarded at the Thursday night session which will open at 7:45 o'clock and a war production school will be conducted for both men and women.

Recreation for the pre-school and grade pupils each evening will be under the supervision of the teachers.

Mrs. Foght has a wide experience as a Chautauqua speaker, civic leader, teacher in religious training and is interested in rural problems. Mr. Peters is known as a speaker in the community, having given talks at the Morral Farmers' institute last year and returned to deliver the High school commencement address.

EISENHOWER

were not just starting with his arrival, Eisenhower said:

Praises Navy's Work

"I hail the good work of the naval forces, particularly recently when they nailed the Scharnhorst and got those three destroyers in the bay of Biscay. These were simply dramatic moments—the grand work the navies have been doing is evidenced by all the troops brought to England safely.

"We salute the grand work of the air forces—what they have done by pounding Germany, reducing her military potential and at great risk of themselves and with absolute courage.

"It's a wonderful story * * * we should not overlook the good work of base supply nor the fine infantry training and preparing out on the cold moors and on the countryside in mud and rain."

Eisenhower, ruddy and healthy-looking, said "fundamentally, public opinion wins wars," and asked the frankest and fullest possible reporting of operations in this theater.

"I take it you are just as anxious as I am to win this war and let it be done so we can all go fishing," he said.

Eisenhower in Kansas for Family Reunion

By The Associated Press

MANHATTAN, Kas., Jan. 17—Taking a few hours off during his very busy schedule on his recent trip to the United States Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower enjoyed a brief family reunion in Kansas, it was learned today.

Arriving by airplane at Marshall Field, Fort Riley, one evening, the general came to Manhattan immediately in an Army car and spent the night at the home of his brother, M. E. Eisenhower, president of Kansas State college, where he met his 82-year-old mother, Mrs. David Eisenhower, who came from her home in Abilene to see her distinguished son, supreme commander of the allied expeditionary forces in Europe.

The general, who was reared in Kansas, left the following morning for Washington.

Wilson's Policy To Hit as Opportunity Offers

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Jan. 17 — Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson announced today his policy as Mediterranean commander-in-chief would be to strike at the Germans with maximum force wherever the opportunity offers.

The object of present operations in Italy is to capture Rome, Wilson told correspondents in his first appearance at allied headquarters in Algiers as the new commander.

But the Mediterranean front extends from the Maritz river in the Balkans to the Pyrenees and attacks might be made anywhere along it, including southern France, Gen. Wilson said.

The Maritz river rises in the center of Bulgaria and forms part of the boundary of Bulgaria and Turkey. The Pyrenees form the French-Spanish frontier.

THAT EVEN the bitterest of enemies in the animal world can "shake hands" and make up is a moral for us humans. Here Owen Kruzer, 11, of Chicago, registers approval as his pooch, "Nikki," and his pet Mallard duck kiss in what may be a lasting friendship.

LACK OF DEMAND HURTS GRAIN PRICES

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 17—Wheat and rye were down about a cent at times today in a grain market again characterized by lack of demand. Reports of easiness in the cash wheat trade at both Kansas City and Minneapolis, with prices quoted below ceilings on high protein wheat, unsettled the futures market.

Some of the selling in wheat was attributed to hedging. Purchases of around 230,000 bushels of corn on a "to-arrive" basis from the country, indicating an expanded movement of that grain, caused some selling of other feed grains. The trade heard a mild revival of "early peace" in Europe talk, but it was accepted with skepticism.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I REIGNED in my own excitement with an iron hand, knowing from the nuance in Lillian's voice as she uttered the name of her dastardly first husband who had brought so much tragedy into her life before his death, how her nerves were being racked by this device of the gangsters in signing his name to the telegram summoning her to a rendezvous with Marion, for such I knew must be the message.

"Steady, girl!" I said firmly. "This may complicate things. What does it say? Is it the usual postponement?"

Remembered Telegram

I was remembering the first telegram which commanded her to appear in two days at a certain restaurant, dressed in deep mourning, for a meeting with her idolized daughter held in captivity by the gangsters sending the wire.

There had been two succeeding wires, one postponing the meeting for two weeks, and the other putting the rendezvous off indefinitely, but commanding her to hold herself in readiness to come to the restaurant within four hours of receiving another telegram.

"No," Lillian replied. "There isn't a postponement. It tells me to come, dressed as directed in the other wire, not to the restaurant named before, but the one in which we are interested today.

"But," she went on, "here is the awful thing about it. For some reason the wire has been delayed, and it is already 10 minutes past the hour named for my appearance!"

Must Lose No Time

"Then," I said briskly, "we must lose no time. Get into that dress you've been saving as quickly as you possibly can, and taxi down to the place they've named. Take Ronald with you, but have him get out two blocks from the place. He is not to go to the restaurant now, for they stipulate you are to come alone, do they not?"

"Oh, yes! Just the same procedure as before."

"Tell Ronald that if it is possible, after I get down to the apartment, I will take him with me to the restaurant, but impress upon him that he is to walk to the apartment as quickly as possible after leaving the taxi, and is not to step out of it again until I get there. I can't wait to talk to him, but——"

"I'll attend to him," she said competently, and I saw that the necessity for action had steadied her and released all her keen energy and resourcefulness. "And I'll be watching for you at the restaurant."

Guards In Disguise

"I'll be there," I said, "and remember, the place, by this time, is alive with guards, apparently sight-seeing diners."

"The Chief never misses a bet!" she said. "Good-bye."

The click of her receiver told me that she already had gone into action, and I jiggled my own up and down, getting the hotel operator back immediately.

"I want to leave an important message for my husband, Mr. Graham, and my father, Mr. Spencer," I said. "Will you pass it along to the other operators coming on duty later, and when I get through giving it to you, please connect me with the desk. I will also give it to the clerk."

"That will be best," she said, "and I will see that the other girls get it. What is the message, please?"

"Tell both of them, please," I said slowly, "that they are to come to Miss Morton's apartment immediately and that I already have gone down there.

Will Telephone

"It is possible," I went on, "that I may return to the hotel before they do. If I do, I will telephone you immediately."

"Thank you," she said, "I will attend to it."

"Thank you!" I said, [illegible] the urgency, "and now, will you get me this number?"

I gave her my father's private number at the hideaway, which Gus answers in the Chief's absence, and heard his voice after two or three seconds which seemed eternities.

"Please call Mrs. Beckett to this telephone," I said, and, knowing this interval would be longer, kept my jittery nerves in rein until I heard her voice.

"Madge!" Katharine cried in astonishment. Then fearfully: "Has anything happened to the children?"

"No," I said, "but it looks as in the big showdown will come tonight, and we may need you—and your first-aid outfit."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Medicine 40 Years Ago

In the course of my researches on the Turkish bath I have been looking over some of the old medical journals of 1900 to 1905. No one could help being struck with the fact that the articles go into great length about subjects that do not concern us today at all. Here they were in the Twentieth century, the same one as ours and thought themselves in the vanguard of progress, but they are agonizing about problems that have simply been taken out of routine practice, or so easily solved that the modern medical student hardly spends a Saturday evening on them.

For instance, a number of articles on the surgical treatment of the complications of typhoid fever—haemorrhage and perforation. There is so little call for those procedures now that nobody discusses them. Typhoid fever still exists, but it almost as rare as bubonic plague. But in those days the hospitals were full of cases. Nowadays, to have typhoid fever is a disgrace; anybody who has it should walk back into the Middle Ages. If local sanitation does not eliminate it, typhoid vaccination for the individual, in spite of the howls of the anti-vaccinationists, does.

Then here is an article by a professor in a then and still world-famous medical college on pernicious anemia. It was right-up-to-date in 1902. But under treatment he has a paragraph on diet and thrashes around in a bewildered fashion. Not a mention or hint of liver. Nowadays the corner grocer can tell you how to cure pernicious anemia.

I turn the pages — ventrosuspension for neurasthenia. The instruments they used to do that are gathering rust in the old surgical cabinets.

At Professor Olshausen's clinic in Berlin—for anaesthesia, choloform is used by the drop method. Many a graveyard headstone bears the name of some person snatched in the prime of life, whose surgeon was ill-advised in this respect.

The municipal water supply was beginning to be examined critically. But nobody suggested anything so radical as that this was the function of the state. People boiled their drinking water in the home.

Cures of tuberculosis by altitude and overfeeding. No one suspected that surgery was going to come closer to solving the problem—at least to supplanting all other methods of treatment except rest.

"Venereal Disease Among the Filipinos"—the penalties of imperialism.

"Temperance Reform"—prohibition of the sales of spirituous liquors and crime would be diminished so much that we could close our prisons.

Eye-strain as a cause of chronic headache, neurasthenia, hysteria, mental depression, dyspepsia, underweight, anemia, etc. The chronic headache is all that is left as a resultant of eyestrain.

Wandering kidney—it has wandered out of the respectable operating rooms of the world.

Well, this is still the Twentieth Century and the world do move.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Jan. 18

ACCORDING to the lunar transits this is a day which should [illegible] ahead with [illegible] speed and progress under the impetus of quick thinking, [illegible] plans and wisely organized schedules. [illegible] should be operative in a measure of major significance in order to attain very high and ambitious objectives. In such ventures the friendliness and substantial support of those in influence, whether in individual prestige, corporate power of sound financial or public, political or community groups. There is definite sign of enmity or antagonism [illegible] a surprising turn, and this should be averted by tact, compromise, amiability and good sense and not by letting the feelings and emotions run away with better judgment than strife and turbulence. Entertainment or social gestures may prove value in placating opposition.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of an excellent opportunity to forge ahead to most cherished hopes and ambitions, with promise of honors, promotion and tokens of friendship and goodwill from those in high places. This opening demands quick action, well-organized plans and logical development that will "hold water" as to cooperation of influence in capital, promoting corporations, or if the objective is a public one, the endorsement and hearty consent of political or diplomatic bodies. A sudden danger threatens, with bitter enmity and opposition which must be averted by ready compromise, amiability, logic and reason and not flying into a rage of feelings and emotions. The social approach, with congeniality or conviviality might win against impetuosity or erratic behavior.

A child born on this day will have splendid talents and creative skill for outstanding success, perhaps distinction and position, although it might spoil such prospects by emotional or erratic behavior.
